Hurst Festival Super Sunday

Hurstpierpoint Festival – in its 16th year – delivers over 80 distinct events over 2 weeks in September.

Our Launch day is Super Sunday – where the High Street is closed, and the entire local community come together for a full programme of free entertainment on the Recreation Ground with good food, drink, crafts and local art and music.

This year we wish to expand, with funding, the free entertainment to help the whole community even more and make sure that the whole community benefits from Free entertainment and activities all day.

On this Community Day Hurst Festival attracts an estimated audience of some 3,500 individuals drawn from every element of our diverse communities. The reputation of this registered charity is impressive, and its reach extends to many of the neighbouring towns and villages of mid Sussex and the nearby coast.

We engage the entire community from performers and artists to suppliers, schools, venues and local organisations and our last year's festival was great for people's mental health and sense of community.

The Hurst Festival Team are excited to be planning for a Full Live Festival in 2021, and part of our planning is looking at how these events will look if we are still socially distancing and of course keeping an eye on the Government Guidelines on Live Events but we are excited to be the purveyors of great moment of celebration in bringing the whole community together in September.

Throughout its life, the festival has delivered an imaginative and inclusive creative programme. A programme crafted to engage the interest, match the pocket and challenge the expectations of those from all walks of Sussex life.
